These events will all be held on the Midway Town Square, beginning at 7:00 a.m.

David Sam was born August 12, 1933 in Hobart, Indiana the youngest of 11 children of immigrant parents.

He converted to the LDS faith at age 18 before coming to Utah to attend Brigham Young University, where he graduated in 1957 with a Bachelor of Science Degree. Judicial nominee relishes call PROVO — The son of an immigrant Romanian who walked across continental Europe to freedom is on the threshold of becoming Utah's newest federal judge.

One of Judge David Sam's daughters was married Aug. 1, and the call from President Reagan the next day just added to the wonderful feelings he'd had all week, Sam said.

The only thing that could have been better, he said, would have been for his father to be here to realize what his son is accomplishing in America.

Sam, now a Utah 4th District judge, was in his office in Provo when he received the telephone call from Reagan. "He told me he had the documents on his desk and was ready to sign them and make me a federal judge by presidential appointment," Sam said.

Sam, who'll be 52 on Monday, cannot move to the U.S. District Court for Utah, in Salt Lake City, until his appointment is approved by the Senate, which is not scheduled to meet on the matter until September.

"I will have to go to Washington in order to testify in front of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Senate has now recessed until Labor Day, so until then I will continue to serve my judgeship here in the 4th District Court," Sam said.

Sam's parents were both immigrants to the United States.

"In fact, both of them were born on the exact day, the exact month and exact year, right across the street from one another in a small village in Romania. That was on February 25, 1894," Sam said.

In 1914, with war threatening to engulf Europe, Sam said, his father set out for freedom. After getting from the European coast to the United States via boat, Sam's father was able to arrange for his wife to join him in America.

"My dad walked across continental Europe to get to freedom and America. So I grew up in a home where freedom and liberty have always been held special and dear. There were other family members who tried to do the same as he, but he was the only one who made it out."

"I think it was this great appreciation for America and my love for her that led me into the legal profession," Sam said.

With the possibility of becoming a federal judge looming closer, the Springville resident reflects on this country's judicial system and sees the good and the bad.

"My feeling is that our judicial system is vital to democracy. It is the mortar that holds democracy together, but I feel like I do with anything — that we can improve on it," Sam said.

One of the major problems is the constant delays in the system, Sam said. "I believe in the saying that says delayed justice is justice denied," he said.

The next great problem is too many appeals, Sam said. "There are constant and endless appeals being filed in the criminal justice system. We must begin to work to eliminate those," Sam said.

If his appointment to the federal bench is ratified, Sam said he will try to implement some of the principles he and the other three 4th District judges have practiced.

"My objective is to do what I've done here. I've been pleased and impressed with what my colleagues have done here in working to prevent delays in the justice system. I think on the average we give out court dates that are within just 90 or 100 days of cases being filed and charges," Sam said.

This judge said he believes firmly that punishment is a means of deterring further crimes. "Violence in this society should not be tolerated by the judicial system. But we also must remember that we cannot abandon the rehabilitation programs, when we do that it would certainly be a sad state of affairs," Sam said.

America's institutions are places that must be constantly evaluated to make sure they are not schools in crime for people being held there, Sam said.

"We must be careful that while in the institutions these people are not becoming more hardened, but instead trained and made productive for society," he said.

After being educated at Brigham Young University and University of Utah, Sam said it was easy for him to believe that Utah is the best place for him to raise his family. Despite what he sees as a society where violent crime is increasing, Sam said Utah is different from the rest of the country.

"Here we are still blessed to be in a society and area where people have a reverence for the law," Sam said.

Sam and his wife are the parents of eight children, two of whom are adopted orphans from Guatemala.

Senate confirms Sam, Anderson as judges

17 Oct 1985
Deseret News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Utahns David Sam to the U.S. District Court for Utah and Stephen Anderson to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The action came Wednesday after Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the Senate minority leader, lifted a hold he had placed on all presidential nominations in a dispute over recess appointments. Such a hold is honored as a Senate courtesy but cannot block nominations indefinitely.

Sam will join the district court bench in Salt Lake City. Anderson will sit with the 10th Circuit in Denver but will maintain an office in the Salt Lake Federal Building.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, congratulated both men.

The appointments become effective as soon as President Reagan signs documents pertaining to them, following which both men can be sworn into office.

With the courts beginning their fall sessions, the holdup in Washington was delaying swearing-in ceremonies as well as the work of the courts.

Judge Sam Moves to Federal Bench

19 Oct 1985
WASHINGTON — The Senate confirmed the nominations Wednesday of Provo's 4th District Judge David Sam and Utah attorney Stephen Anderson to federal judgeships.

Sam, 52, will succeed Aldon Anderson on the U.S. District Court for Utah. Judge Anderson has taken senior status and will serve on the district court bench as a part-time judge.

Anderson, 53, will fill a newly created vacancy on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, based in Denver. He becomes the second Utahn on the 10th Circuit, along with Monroe McKay.

Both new federal judges are University of Utah Law School graduates. Judge Anderson is a teaching fellow at the Brigham Young University Law School.

Anderson, a former Utah State

Bar president, is a partner in a Salt Lake City law firm with a specialty in civil tax law and criminal law.

Sam had a private law practice for 15 years and has been a full-time judge on the state's district court in Provo since 1976.

THOMAS S. WATSON.

This historical and biographical number would not be complete were we to close without saying something of Judge Watson, who for nearly forty years was a conspicuous figure in the public and social affairs of this county. He was born in the parish of Bulingry, Fifeshire, Scotland, September 21, 1844. On March 30, 1863, he married Miss Elizabeth Honeyman, by whom he was the father of twelve children, eleven sons and one daughter, four of whom are now living—Thomas H., Wm. D., and David C. Watson of Park City, and Henry F. Watson of Charleston, this county.

Mr. Watson with his family left Scotland some time in the 60's and came to Heber in 1869. He soon began to gather material around him for a comfortable home. He was young and strong and willing to work, in the field, the quarry, or wherever he could find employment. In those days in this valley all were laborers, few were employers, but "where there's a will there's a way," and Mr. Watson had the "will" and found the "way."

May 28, 1888, his wife was gored by a bull and was found dead in the corral. Fourteen months later he married Jennie Fowles, by whom he had two children—Lindsay P. and Lillian.

In 1884 Mr. Watson was elected Probate Judge of this county, which position he held for ten years. He has held many offices of trust and honor in this county, was messenger in the constitutional convention, and in 1906 was elected county clerk and recorder which position he held at the time of his death, August 16, 1905.

NECESSARY EXPLANATIONS

WILLIAM SIDNEY WILLES

William Sidney Willes was born at Lehi, Utah, on September 5, 1858, to William Sidney Smith Willes and Alzina Lucinda Lott Willes.

When 10 years old, his father was killed in an industrial accident. Being the eldest child, he went to work to help support his mother, brothers and sisters.

When a young man, a rolling log crushed one of his legs. He spent many agonizing months, but the limb was spared and healed, with very little impairment.

He moved to Heber City, Utah, about 1880, where he was associated with A. Hatch & Co. in retail merchandising. It was in Heber City he met and later married Mary Lorintha Clyde, in the Salt Lake Temple, on November 30, 1882. To this union five children were born. He spent his time at law study and was admitted to the bar entirely upon a self-study course.

His early ambitions for a career in the field of art were not to be. A mutual pact with a famous leading artist and boyhood companion for a share in the educational expense plan was never realized in his behalf, but his marvelous ability as depicted in his many paintings gave him great comfort as a pastime in his declining years.

He was a self-taught musician, playing both the violin and trumpet, and for many years was an active member of the Heber City band.

He was active in the Church, devoting much time as a high councilman. He served as Sunday school superintendent of Heber City Third Ward. Among the other varied Church activities, he served a 2½-year mission in 1904 and often referred to that experience "as the richest of all."

He was purchasing agent for the Indians on the White Rock Reservation by government appointment.

He, with Mrs. Willes, established and operated the first photographic studio in Wasatch County. They also operated for a limited time in Vernal, Utah.

He was appointed by President Grover Cleveland, September 26, 1894, as "judge of probate in the county of Wasatch, Territory of Utah." He was attorney for the D&RG Railroad for Wasatch County many years and held several elective and appointive offices in Wasatch County.

He moved with his family from Heber City to Salt Lake City in 1918. He was juvenile judge of the Fourth Judicial District until his retirement in 1928.

He is to be remembered for his deep desire for learning and self and cultural improvement. His contribution was to the Church, community, state and nation.

He died in Salt Lake City, May 21, 1938, and was buried in Heber City Cemetery.

MARY LORINTHA CLYDE WILLES

Mary Lorintha Clyde was born in Heber City, Utah, on September 24, 1862, to George Washington Clyde and Jane McDonald Clyde. She was baptized into The Church of Jesus Christ on August 7, 1870.

She was a literary genius, a fluent speaker and a natural-born speaker, who used her talents to improve educational standards and spread the gospel.

At the age of eight, she received a set of pictures as a prize from Heber First Ward on winning a speech contest when she competed with people much older than herself. She taught school before she was 17, and, to quote her: "Many of the men in my class towered head and shoulders above me."

Her greatest joy was in teaching and counseling boys. She often said: "Give me the heart of a boy and you have given me something which lasts forever." This was demonstrated at her final rites, when men from all walks of life paid her tribute with silent tears. It was her policy to promote the underprivileged and unruly boys by putting them in positions of trust.

The Church records of Heber First Ward read as follows:

"Miss Mary Clyde, first president of the Heber First Ward Primary Assn., set apart by Bishop William Foreman on September 4, 1879.

"Released October 17, 1884. Married while in office."

This tells us she also served as charter president while 17 years of age.

She married William Sidney Willes in the Salt Lake Temple on November 30, 1882. To this union five children were born.

She and Mr. Willes established the first photographic studio in Wasatch County. It was here she supported her family and made possible the mission of her husband to England in 1904. They operated for a limited time a photographic studio at Vernal, Utah.

She established the first public library in Wasatch County by circulating her own private library.

She was an active Church member and leader, serving in all auxiliary organizations. She was a dramatic and a humorous reader and entertained generously. She taught dramatics in the YLMIA, coached their plays and toured Wasatch County with her young Thespians.

She was literary teacher in the Relief Society and was feature speaker at ward and stake activities. She served her community with eagerness. One assignment of which she was ever proud was in assisting with plans for the celebration of Utah statehood.

She was the first vice president of the Utah State Federation of Women's Clubs.

In 1918 she moved with her family to Salt Lake City from Heber City, where she continued her Church services as a literary teacher, speaker and entertainer.

She organized "The Home Study Group," which has grown from its original 10 members to over 100 women who continue to study and promote Church doctrines.

She was a member of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers, Camp 11, Salt Lake County.

She was a devoted mother, with the highest principles of moral and religious obligations.

She served her community, stake and Church until curtailed by ill health in her declining years.

She died in Salt Lake City, Utah, on November 8, 1940, and was buried in Heber City Cemetery.

She was a literary genius, a fluent speaker and a natural-born speaker, who used her talents to improve educational standards and spread the gospel.

At the age of eight, she received a set of pictures as a prize from Heber First Ward on winning a speech contest when she competed with people much older than herself. She taught school before she was 17, and, to quote her: "Many of the men in my class towered head and shoulders above me."

Her greatest joy was in teaching and counseling boys. She often said: "Give me the heart of a boy and you have given me something which lasts forever." This was demonstrated at her final rites, when men from all walks of life paid her tribute with silent tears. It was her policy to promote the underprivileged and unruly boys by putting them in positions of trust.

The Church records of Heber First Ward read as follows:

"Miss Mary Clyde, first president of the Heber First Ward Primary Assn., set apart by Bishop William Foreman on September 4, 1879.

"Released October 17, 1884. Married while in office."

This tells us she also served as charter president while 17 years of age.

She married William Sidney Willes in the Salt Lake Temple on November 30, 1882. To this union five children were born.

She and Mr. Willes established the first photographic studio in Wasatch County. It was here she supported her family and made possible the mission of her husband to England in 1904. They operated for a limited time a photographic studio at Vernal, Utah.

She was the first vice president of the Utah State Federation of Women's Clubs.

In 1918 she moved with her family to Salt Lake City from Heber City, where she continued her Church services as a literary teacher, speaker and entertainer.

She organized "The Home Study Group," which has grown from its original 10 members to over 100 women who continue to study and promote Church doctrines.
